A PLACE OF WARMTH, LOVE, CHALLENGE AND WISDOM

By Gabriel Leconte

The Class of 2003

All my life, I valued education. From the time I was a child, I dreamed of walking down the aisle with my baccalaureate degree. My family and my Haitian culture always taught me that education was the road and a major step toward success. However, this great goal was not to be easily achieved. Due to family, financial and other circumstances in my life, I stopped attending school in the middle of my college experience. For six years, I attended to the various needs and problems life set before my family and me. But, I never stopped valuing education.

In September 2001, I was finally ready to return to school. There were many concerns, fears and obstacles for me to overcome. At the suggestion of Nirida Powell, a coworker, friend and graduate of Saint Joseph's College, with whom I shared my many fears about returning to school, I took the first step and made application to Saint Joseph's. Nirida explained that at Saint Joseph's College I would find a caring community that would provide me with the support and challenge I was seeking. She said that the staff and faculty would understand the complexities of my life and would provide me with the opportunity to achieve my dream of a college degree.

The journey has not been easy, but at every step of the educational process, Nirida's words about Saint Joseph's rang true. From the first day, I felt welcomed, accepted and valued as a member of this educational community. My fears flew away as professors, staff and students made me feel that I was indeed an individual very capable of learning and excelling in college.

I especially remember and appreciate the support and encouragement I received from Linda Fonte, who took so much time to show me the best path to reach my goal. Her availability and good advice inspired and encouraged me greatly, especially when life seemed overwhelming. Professor Daniel Beni helped me to grow academically and professionally. He assisted me to become a well-grounded and emotionally mature adult. Professor Gloria Gasper challenged me in a gentle and encouraging way. Professor Fuentes helped me to become a better parent. Professor Rupert Campbell helped me to reach goals higher than I set for myself.

I am also grateful to Professors Debra Hyndman, Rosa Lee Raines, Jean Black and Gloria White-Harris. They touched my life during my time as a student here. Outside the classroom, I received real help from Linda Pasquale, who assisted me to resolve many thorny financial issues related to my quest for education. Indeed, for every problem I encountered, there was always someone at Saint Joseph's College to assist me to find a solution. So, to all the professors and staff, I say thank you from the depths of my heart. Your influence and contributions to my life will never be forgotten.

I hope that some day, I too, like my friend Nirida, will be able to encourage someone to overcome their fears and attend a place of warmth, love, challenge and true wisdom - Saint Joseph's College.

GRADUATION THOUGHTS

By Eileen Betancourt

The Class of 2003

In January 2001, I started attending Saint Joseph's College, which is located in a picturesque corner of the Fort Greene neighborhood of Brooklyn. I was determined to obtain the Bachelor of Science degree that I should have had years ago. Getting this degree seemed like only a dream to me, for I could never find the time in my hectic life to go to school. Actually, disappointments in my life provided the catalyst for me to consider attending this wonderful school.

The death of my mother a few years earlier left me in limbo and I sought solace in my job. I worked 14 hour days, 5 days a week and on Saturdays I worked an additional 8 hours. Then I would go home and take care of my daughters. When I finally felt that things were coming back into focus, I was transferred from an office I had been working at for 10 years where I exercised oversight of an entire mammography department, to an office that was half the size. I hated this new place so much that I just wanted to give up on everything, until a friend who had graduated from Saint Joseph's urged me to stop wasting my life and to do what I always wanted: obtain my baccalaureate degree. I did just that. Armed with hope and determination, I promptly enrolled at Saint Joseph's College.

While attending this outstanding College, I came to know professors who have really made an impact on my life and I would like to thank them individually. Gloria White-Harris told me an inspiring story of how to keep my head high, wherever I work, as long as I do my best - and have a phone at my disposal. Professor Jaffe, who taught me human resources law, opened my mind and provided me with skills to fight injustice at the workplace, even when there is no union to back you. What a little knowledge can do to change a person's outlook on how to bring about change. Professor Fuentes opened my mind to examine why I act and react as I do in many areas of life. Finally, Professor Beni, the Moderator of our Arts Club, readily conveyed his passion for the arts and influenced me to see my first opera and ballet, as well as several Broadway dramas and musicals. Without the wonderful work of the Arts Club, I would not have had an opportunity to experience these fine arts events. I simply could not get my friends to attend such events with me no matter how hard I tried.

Saint Joseph's College is also a place that has enabled me to meet many people and make friendships that will be long lasting. I have developed connections here that will stand the test of time.

To all those that will be graduating in June 2003, I offer my congratulations. I hope to see you walk down the aisle with me on this great day.

REMINISCENCES

By Juanita D. Bodie

The Class of 2003

My experiences with Saint Joseph's College started when I learned that the College had begun offering courses on-site at KeySpan Energy, where I am employed. This was a dream come true. How much more convenient could it be to earn my baccalaureate degree! After speaking with colleagues, who expressed great excitement and satisfaction with their studies, I enrolled in the SJC School of Adult and Professional Education. When I went to the Brooklyn campus for counseling, I noted that the staff and students were adults, like myself, which gave me great comfort. Everyone was warm and kind. This was important to me and was so very different from the treatment I had received in the past at other colleges.

What I have enjoyed most about attending Saint Joseph's College is the spirit of openness fostered by the professors, the diversity of backgrounds and occupations represented by my classmates, and the pleasure of the openness of interactions held with them. I have often shared these rich experiences with fellow employees at KeySpan Energy and with family members. During my time at the College, I joined the Aesthetics Activities (Arts) Club, which enhanced my appreciation of Broadway shows and other arts events. I also became a member of the SHRM student chapter, where I acquired a better understanding of the dynamics of interpersonal relations.

I must also make mention of certain professors who will live in my spirit forever. Professor Daniel Beni, who is so down to earth, enriched my thirst for the arts, and became a beacon of support and encouragement. Dr. Lorraine Boykin believes that you are never too old to do anything. You set your mind on the goal and you just do it. She taught me that if you spend time worrying or procrastinating, the time and energy could have been better spent on achieving your goal. Professor Rupert Campbell made learning very interactive. I know that I pushed his buttons sometimes, however, I could not wait to take his next class. Then there is Professor Sylvia Storch, who is so exposed to life's wonders and is always so elegantly dressed every time you see her. I only pray that my mind is as sharp and that I look as good as she does. Last, but certainly not least, is Sharon Callahan-Wormworth, an alumna of the College (Class of 2000), whose tireless work as Activities Coordinator of the Arts Club, and ready smile and calm demeanor, will always be an example to me of how to proceed in life.

In closing, I would like to thank the faculty and students of Saint Joseph's College for providing me with such a memorable learning experience.

REFLECTIONS AT GRADUATION

By Deborah Louise Sanders

The Class of 2003

I have been a student at Saint Joseph's College since September 2000. My two-and-a-half years here have been both rewarding and challenging. As I ready myself for graduation, I would like to reflect on the many wonderful experiences I have had at this College. I have met some very interesting and special people during the course of my studies. I would like to say thank you to the wonderful staff members and professors. The way that you have treated me made me feel more like a family member than just a student attending college.

I would like to say thank you to God for giving me the strength to complete this degree. I would also like to thank Him for blessing me with such wonderful, caring and loving family and friends. You have all been so supportive of me while I have been in school. I pray that God will always bless you and watch over you.

I would also like to take this time to give a special thank you to two of my professors: Ms. Gloria White-Harris and Mr. Michael Latimer. You both took time to help me through the hardest time of my life, when my mother took ill and died. Thank you both for being such an encouragement to me and for praying for my mother and me. It was because of your support that I was able to complete the Spring 2001 semester with excellent grades. I can never thank you enough for all that you both have done.

Finally, I would like to say thank you to my two guardian angels. First, to my grandmother Louise E. Hersi: you always told me that everything is possible When you place it in God's hands. Second, to my mother, Allie Louise Hersi-Sanders: you were always my biggest supporter. You always had faith in me even when I did not have faith in myself. You are my heart and soul. I know that you are not here with me physically, but I always feel your presence and know that you are both watching over me. I love and miss you both. I have dedicated the achievement of receiving my Bachelor of Science degree to both of you.

DREAM

The pursuit of one perfect dream
Always seems so difficult and hard to achieve
Because the obstacles are usually greater
Than one has ever imagined.

Nevertheless, it's always worth the journey
With a little bit of sacrifice and self-discipline
With lots of perseverance and determination
Nothing is impossible or unreachable

It is just a matter of having the patience,

The pursuit of one perfect dream
Always seems so difficult and hard to achieve
Because the obstacles are usually greater
Than one has ever imagined.

Nevertheless, it's always worth the journey.

With a little bit of sacrifice and self-discipline
With lots of perseverance and determination

The tolerance, the willingness and the desire for fulfillment

In due time, the rest will follow.

With the right drive, the right attitude, and the adequate effort

One will be definitely able to reach their goal.

One should never give up on their dreams,

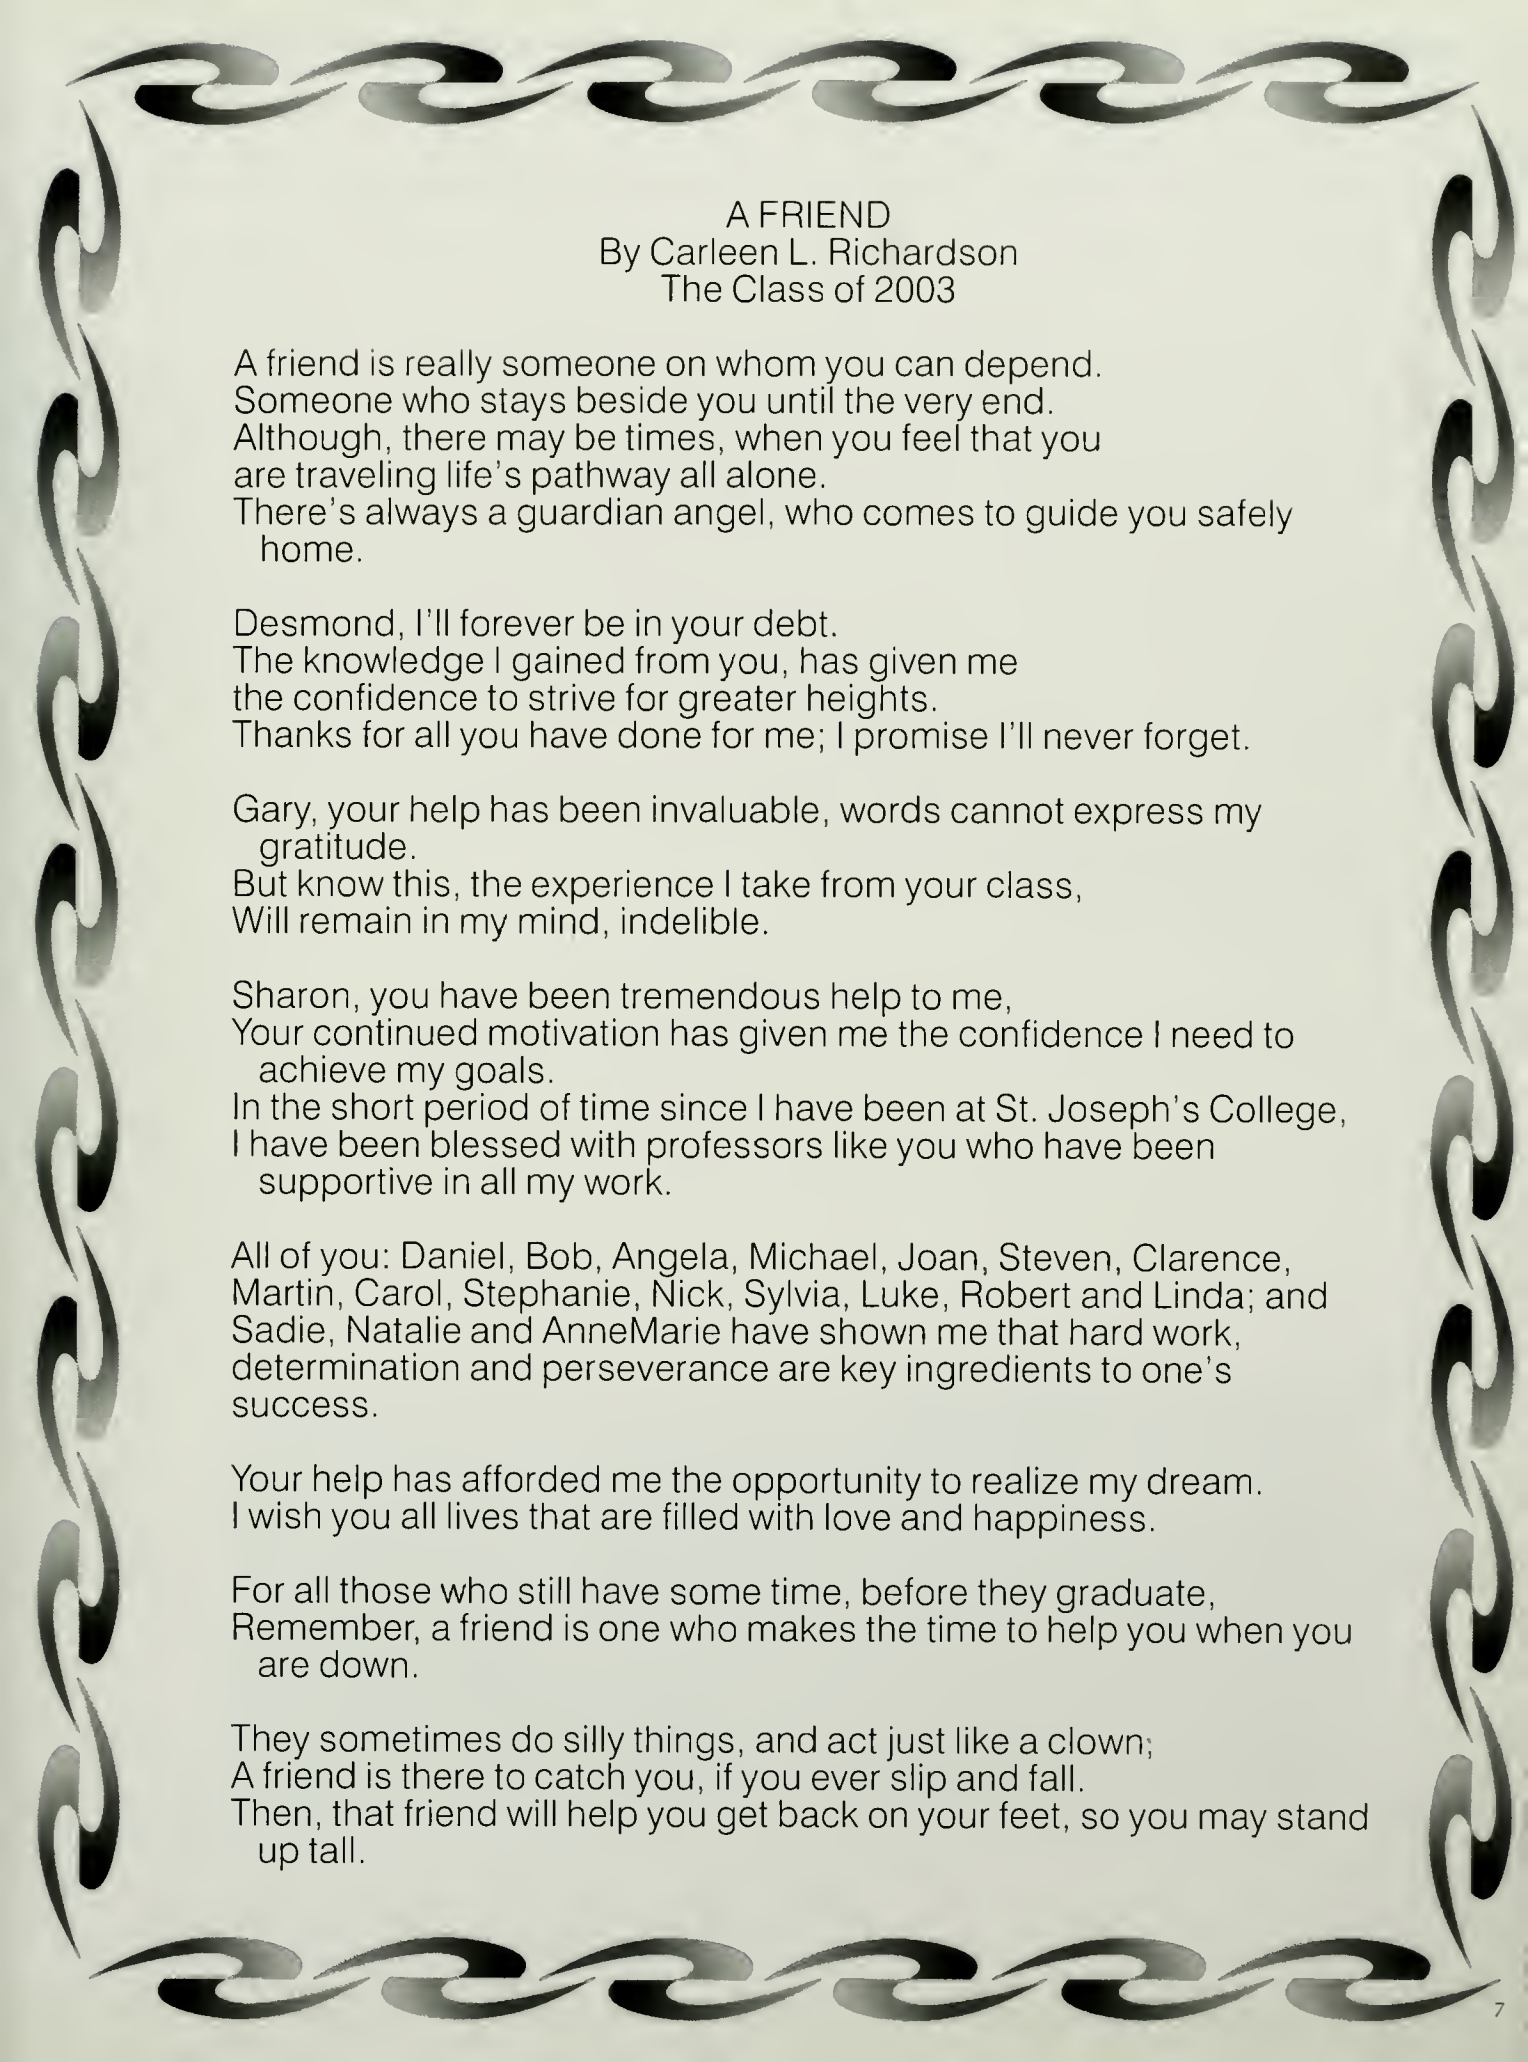

Life is all about dreams,

As long as one can dream, we can always succeed.

Without dreams, one has nothing to live for

Because dreaming is the first step toward success.

A FRIEND
By Carleen L. Richardson
The Class of 2003

A friend is really someone on whom you can depend.
Someone who stays beside you until the very end.
Although, there may be times, when you feel that you are traveling life's pathway all alone.
There's always a guardian angel, who comes to guide you safely home.

Desmond, I'll forever be in your debt.
The knowledge I gained from you, has given me
the confidence to strive for greater heights.
Thanks for all you have done for me; I promise I'll never forget.

Gary, your help has been invaluable, words cannot express my gratitude.
But know this, the experience I take from your class,
Will remain in my mind, indelible.

Sharon, you have been tremendous help to me,
Your continued motivation has given me the confidence I need to achieve my goals.
In the short period of time since I have been at St. Joseph's College, I have been blessed with professors like you who have been supportive in all my work.

All of you: Daniel, Bob, Angela, Michael, Joan, Steven, Clarence, Martin, Carol, Stephanie, Nick, Sylvia, Luke, Robert and Linda; and Sadie, Natalie and AnneMarie have shown me that hard work, determination and perseverance are key ingredients to one's success.

Your help has afforded me the opportunity to realize my dream.
I wish you all lives that are filled with love and happiness.

For all those who still have some time, before they graduate,
Remember, a friend is one who makes the time to help you when you are down.

They sometimes do silly things, and act just like a clown;
A friend is there to catch you, if you ever slip and fall.
Then, that friend will help you get back on your feet, so you may stand up tall.

The time has finally come to leave Saint Joseph's College. I remember how terrified I was coming back to school after so many years. I didn't know what to expect. I was fortunate in choosing Saint Joseph's. Everyone here from the cafeteria cook to the Dean made me feel so welcome. All the professors were helpful and understanding. It's been three long years and with the support of my Husband and Son I have finally attained my baccalaureate degree. I will be attending the Master's program at Brooklyn College next year and I know that I will do well because of the excellent instruction received at Saint Joseph's College. I plan to keep in close touch with my former professors here. I know they will still be available for consultation and to provide support as I embark upon my graduate studies.

So, I will not be saying goodbye, I will just say, talk to you soon.

TO MY SISTER MICHELLE PORTEOUS

Graduation is a time
for feeling very proud,
for thinking lots of lovely thoughts
and saying them out loud.
It's a time for feeling love
about to overflow,
and just before it leaps it banks,
to let the loved one know.
And so I'm very proud of you for being who you are,
for making something of yourself,
for making it this far.
I'm proud because I am a part of everything you do.
This time's the time to say how much
I am proud of you.

From Allesandra Porteous

To my "Sis", from "Lil Sis",
On her graduation day:
Maybe life will separate us,
yet we'll always be best friends.
So may love, until life ends,
in joy or sorrow not forsake us,
Sunshine on the darkest day.
Though there's a frequency I'll miss, each breath of peace that fortune sends recalls a bond time can't betray.

Sister Mary
Florence Burns
Ph.D.
Vice President
For Academic Affairs

October 23, 2002

Dear Friends:

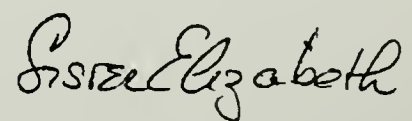

It is with very mixed feelings that I am writing to tell you that Sister Mary Florence Burns, Vice President for Academic Affairs, has informed me that she is resigning her position as of July 1, 2003. Sister Mary Florence has served as the Chief Academic Officer of St. Joseph's College for 34 years, and she has given leadership, direction, and focus which can only be described as superb.

I speak of mixed feelings because, while I recognize that S. M. Florence has more than earned some respite from the unremitting pressures of academic administration, I also recognize that she will be very hard to replace. Those of us who have been privileged to work closely with her over the years continue to marvel at her keen intelligence, her extensive knowledge of New York State Department of Education policies and procedures, her insight into the ever-changing, ever-challenging world of higher education and, above all, her total dedication and devotion to the mission of St. Joseph's College. There is, literally, no way to recount all that she has done to advance and assure the academic standing of the College, even as she has fostered the introduction of many new programs, and has carefully supervised the growth of our faculty. Under her prudent guidance, we have grown in size and stature, and she leaves her office knowing that the College is highly regarded and well-respected in the academic and business communities of New York and Long Island.

I am happy to say that S.M. Florence is not going far away. In fact, she has agreed to take on many of the responsibilities of an office of institutional research, and she will coordinate our responses to the public and private groups which require information from us. Since she has been doing a great deal of this work already, it is a natural transition, and one that she has embraced enthusiastically.

I am sure you join me in expressing deep gratitude to Sister for all she has done for the College, and for us. We will, of course, recognize her contributions in a suitable manner next Spring, but in the meantime, I ask you to pray for her, that the future will bring her many more years of good health and happiness, and for the College, as we begin the search for her replacement. Thank you for your support at this significant moment in the history of SJC.

Sincerely,

The Path to Achievement.

To My Dearest Sister Michelle Porteous

We've been together since we were Just barely more than babes, holding onto Mommy's hand, and missing two front teeth.
Some of us now have to wear
a bra and some to shave,
Adults in what our hearts demand,
still children underneath.
Together we learned how to read,
together learned to play,
to add and multiply our friends,
to give and to receive.
Our teachers taught us how to lead,
to put our tears away,

to separate our means and ends,
to work and to achieve.
And now we step across a line;
our childhood is gone.
Soon, just like a morning dream,
the memories will fade.
But if we turn out good and kind,
rejoicing in the sun,
we'll know to thank these sheltered years
where our first joys remain.

From Allesandra Porteous

Thomas G. Travis, Ph.D.
Vice President And Dean
School Of Adult And Professional Education

Dear Graduate:

In contemplating the magnitude of the accomplishment of adult learners who have completed their programs and are preparing to graduate, I am struck by how different their experiences are from the traditional aged student. Your younger counterparts at St. Joseph's and elsewhere are fortunate in that, for the most part, the primary focus of their lives is their studies.

For you, on the other hand, your college experience has been but one aspect of busy and complicated lives. Most of you have had to fit college around full-time employment, requiring you to get to class after working all day or by giving up your weekends. In either case, you most likely carry with you the residual problems of work and the exhaustion that is the byproduct of demanding careers.

As if this were not enough, you are also challenged by concerns that family relationships generate. While I am sure that most would agree that family is the rock on which we stand as we take on difficult challenges, I think we would also in honesty have to admit that the family dynamic also creates a set of problems and worries from which we can never quite escape. This burden that we can't put down takes its toll as we try to free our schedules and minds to tackle our coursework.

Beyond the immediate difficulties and travails of our individual lives, we find ourselves enmeshed in difficult times. Whether from the international front or from Wall Street, there are dynamics at play that impact our lives over which we have limited control. We are, for good and ill, enmeshed in the times in which we live.

It is against this backdrop that we take the full measure of what you have accomplished. In the face of all these adversities, you have reached deeply inside yourselves to find the will and strength of character to persevere toward the attainment of the baccalaureate. As I alluded to above, this is not something that you have done alone. You have drawn on the support that your family has provided. You have joined together with other students to help stay the course. And you have been the beneficiaries of the guidance and direction of a dedicated faculty and staff. Finally, you have called upon your faith, which provides a power that helps us endure and provides support as we gather the strength to achieve our highest goals. So let me applaud you for accomplishing the dream of a lifetime. Congratulations!

I would like to extend a word of appreciation to Daniel Beni, S. Carole Lessard, Susie James, Leslie Barna, Sadie McMillan, and Grisel Goldman for the work that they have done to make this year's Achievements such a success. May it serve as a reminder of your accomplishment and of the friends who shared the St. Joseph's experience with you.

Sincerely,

To the Graduates of 2003,

Graduation from college is one of life's most consequential transformations. It is, in effect, a declaration that an individual has acquired a formidable array of knowledge and skills, is actively engaged in a process of self-examination, and is vitally involved with the search for truth. Perhaps the search for truth is the most telling benchmark that characterizes this particular transition. The truth-seeker is one who is prepared to challenge the flimsy dictates of conventional thinking in favor of fresh and innovative approaches to complex problems. The truth-seeker refuses to be constrained by narrow boundaries and seeks to think and act in a broadened context of caring and concern for the needs of humanity, wherever such needs are manifest. It is this concept of the college graduate as the truth-seeker that I ask you to consider making your own, as you prepare to leave St. Joseph's College. I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate you on the achievement of your baccalaureate degree. I hope that this yearbook will furnish you with an abundance of memories of your time at St. Joseph's College for years to come.

In compiling this edition of Achievements, I was moved by the heartfelt writings submitted by the graduates of 2003, as well as current students of the program. I was particularly touched by the expressions of support for the work of our Arts Club. As Moderator of this forum, it is reassuring to know that one's efforts are appreciated. In this regard, I would like to thank Sharon Callahan-Wormworth, an alumna of St. Joseph's College (2000) whose stellar work as Activities Coordinator has done much to make the Club a resounding success. Finally, I would like to thank S. Carole Lessard and Sadie McMillan, for providing crucial administrative support, which contributed greatly to the realization of this yearbook.

Cordially,

Daniel Beni

THE AESTHETICS ACTIVITIES CLUB

By Deborah Louise Sanders

The Class of 2003

During the fall semester of 2001, I received a notice in the mail together with spring registration materials, concerning the Aesthetic Activities (Arts) Club, which is headed by Professor Daniel Beni. The notice listed events the Club had an interest in attending in the spring semester and a telephone number to call. This one telephone call not only introduced me to two wonderful people: (Daniel Beni and Sharon Callahan-Wormworth, The Club's able Activities Coordinator); it also changed my social life and that of my friends.

The Club goes to numerous and varied cultural events each semester. I have attended some of these events and have greatly enjoyed myself. I have also brought along friends, family and co-workers to many of the productions. We have been able to see the American folk opera Porgy and Bess, the splendid Alvin Ailey Dance Company, as well as top-shelf Broadway musicals, including The Producers and Into the Woods.

The work that Professor Beni and Sharon Callahan-Wormworth do to make the Club and these events a success is tremendous. I would like to take this time to say a very special thank you to both of them. You both put so much of your personal time and energy into making each event the Club has sponsored a glowing success.

As a graduate of the College, I look forward to remaining active in the Arts Club. Thank you both for your hard work in continuing to make the Aesthetics Activities Club such a resounding success.

If you are a student or a graduate of Saint Joseph's College, and you are interested in attending outstanding arts events, please consider getting involved in the work of the Aesthetics Activities Club.

Graduations are like stepping through
A veil into another, larger room.
Behind, where we can never go again,
Are memories like a shipwreck full of gold.
Strange, the harmonies of pride and sadness,
The dawn and sunset of the new and old,
The bittersweet good-byes while looking forward
To things unseen beyond the ridge of time.
Numb with too much life we stagger through them,
Time passing in the ordinary way.
Relatives and friends all swarm around us,
Buzzing round the silence of the real.
And once the ceremonies and the parties
Are over, and the sweet days come and go,
All we've lost comes back to us as music
Of love departed, never to return.
